Detailed Itinerary

Day 1: Thom And Dam Ngang Island Snorkeling Day Tour

The tour starts off as we head south to visit a pearl cultivation farm, where you can shop for some exquisite jewelry. Pearl Farms were built up in quite a number of facilities, which is out of surprise since Phu Quoc has been being labelled “The Pearl Island”. The pearl farming industry here has been spurred on with the help of pearl farming techniques from various places around the world, thereupon, fined off pearls are considered the favorite merchandises for export, also the wanted wares to consume domestically. During the visit you’ll gain fascinating insight into the process of oyster cultivation which turns it from simple oyster to beautiful jewelry. Then, continue southward to visit Phu Quoc Prison (aka Coconut Tree Prison), a historical site built in the mid-1900s that nowadays a worth-visiting place to learn about the nation’s uncompromising revolution. It is another must-watch site in An Thoi - historically the concentration camp since the French domination in 50s to the “Hell on earth” often-referred prison during the American war in 70s. One might be scared of recalling a long deadly period, by its nature, but letting the painful past gone, this is where you can truly witness the history of Vietnam. Upon reaching An Thoi pier, hop aboard a canoe for a cruise in the southern archipelago, where you’ll enjoy snorkeling in the marine reserve at Thom Island and Dam Ngang Island. Thom Island is the largest island in An Thoi archipelago and the second largest one of Phu Quoc as a whole. It is home to the world’s longest oversea cable car and bills itself as a premier eco-tourism destination that owns a picturesque fishing village and fine underwater zone. Dam Ngang Island, also called “Gam Ghi Island”, is famous for ravishingly beautiful coral reefs. From a distance, Dam Ngang Island is surrounded by rocks with bizarre shapes carved by the wind and waves. It is still very wild and owns several untouched beaches. The last stop is Sao beach. Once you’re back at the pier, drive to Sao Beach, considered one of the most beautiful beaches of the island with its white sand and crystal-clear water. At the end of your full-day tour, you will be transferred back to your hotel. This is a great rendezvous to relax attracting tourists to Phu Quoc travel, indeed, Sao Beach brings pristine and innocent beauty of a pubertal girl making up on the dressing table. After the tour, we will transfer you back to your hotel.
